

Tiffany V Chatman Personal Bio

Tiffany Chatman is a voice of wisdom for this generation in the areas of community building, business strategy, and spiritual devotion.

She is an innovator. A community builder. And a notorious change agent.

Her discipline in life is what drives her tenacity for daily achievements. After earning a degree in Civil and Environmental engineering from Prairie View A&M University, she embarked on a journey in Oil & Gas and worked in the industry for 9 years. She was able to gain reliability engineering, project management, and business development experience and knowledge before making the decision to expand her talent into the space of strategic planning. She regularly makes time to volunteer with her nonprofit, BBLA, Inc., and other partnering organizations while also prioritizing her family and friends.

This Houston native is the eldest of three daughters and the daughter of two loving parents. Her village is large, but it is continually expanding.
